

Leadership in Practice, Volunteer

Joe Jaszewski

Joe Jaszewski epitomizes the characteristic of "service before self," as he consistently meets the highest standards for community service, involvement, and volunteerism.

A community leader throughout the Treasure Valley, Joe lends his voice to many causes including Ada County Highway District's Pedestrian Advisory Group. He began serving on this group in 2019 and became chair in 2023.

Joe inspires others to break their single-occupancy vehicle commuting patterns and try walking or biking instead. He "walks the talk," by walking and biking for his commute and is always eager to talk to friends, coworkers, and acquaintances about ditching their cars as well.

In addition, Joe advocates for projects in his changing neighborhood of Garden City and consistently provides letters and testimony to elected officials.

An approachable and solution-oriented leader, Joe truly listens to others and works to develop consensus among individuals with multiple viewpoints and serves as an inspiration to other community volunteers.
